

Bobbye Brooks is co-founder and CEO of Media 4 Women Enterprises, Inc., a California corporation uniquely designed to promote businesses and organizations through strategic marketing and media development. Bobbye also co-founded with her husband and is Chairman of Cornerstone Managing Partners, a San Diego-based commercial construction and real estate development company. After a successful career in executive healthcare management, Bobbye completed an Executive MBA specializing in entrepreneurial “startup” ventures. With years of leadership and management experience, Bobbye has applied her training and education, along with a personal desire to help others, to launch several fast growing companies positioned for success, including Media Enterprises and Everything4Women. Along with overseeing these businesses, Bobbye is also an author, speaker, radio host and a frequent guest on television interviews. She is also co-host of the Internet television program “Real Issues-Real Answers,” a show that reaches a global audience each week addressing relevant topics affecting our daily lives. Bobbye lives in San Diego, California with her husband, Tom.
